80 YEARS: A LEGACY

editor's notes

hen I accepted the appointment as League Logs Editor for the 2005-2006 year, I was still fairly new to the League. I wasn't sure that I was the best person for the job since I didn't feel that I knew enough about the League to carry it out. What I soon discovered was that being Editor was possibly the best way for me to get to know the League, and most certainly, other members. By year's end, I have been left with a better understanding of the impact that our organization has had on the community, as well as some great new friends.

Unless you've been hiding under a rock, you know that the Junior League of Montgomery celebrated its 80th Anniversary this year, culminating in a Gala which took place on May 9th at the Capital City Club. In honor of this very special year, we searched our archives to find items to include in these issues that would reflect our history. What we found was overwhelming. Not just pictures and articles dating back to the 1920's, but files upon files of projects that had been carried out over the years. In the course of it all, I have gained a real respect for the energy and imagination of the women who came before. Women like Jean Kimball Daniel who joined JLM during WWII and is our oldest living President, and Julia Marks Dozier who was part of the first Provisional Class and President from 1941-1942 (Everybody Was a Provisional – p. 37). What a legacy these women, and the many others, have left us over the past 80 years!

As we welcome a new board, it's not hard to see the fruits of that legacy. The Junior League of Montgomery is stronger than ever and moving forward at a rapid rate, as evidenced by the new online Digital Cheetah service that will streamline our communications and enhance how we manage our memberships and placements (Getting Better Connected is Going to be a Click Away – p. 24-25).

As I close out this last issue of the year, and my last as Editor, I want to extend a hearty "thank you" to everyone who participated: the Staff, the Board, the Communications Council and Guest Writers. I have really enjoyed this time and look forward with fresh new eyes to continuing to do my part to build on the legacy.

Happy Summer!

Making a Difference

eople in our community often tell me of the differences the Junior League is making in our city. It is so rewarding to know that I belong to an organization that makes a difference to people each day. Over the years, our successful fundraisers have provided a financial commitment to the Montgomery area that has totaled well over a million dollars. Our success and strength has come not just from our dollars, but from the enormous number of volunteer hours Junior League members have contributed to every project we champion. Approximately 20,000 hours of volunteer services are donated annually by our faithful members, through community placements. Proceeds raised by the Junior League of Montgomery support their work in the community through projects that improve the quality of life for families and children.

Robert Fulghum's book, All I Ever Really Needed to Know I Learned in Kindergarten, quotes and then remembers the book about Dick and Jane and the first word you learned, the biggest word of all: LOOK. Everything you need to know is in there somewhere; the golden rule and love and basic sanitation; ecology and politics and sane living. Think of what a better world it would be if we all--the whole world—had cookies and milk about 3 o'clock every afternoon and then lay down with our blankets for a nap. Or if we had a basic policy in our nations to always put things back where we found them and cleaned up our own messes. And it is still true; no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it is better to hold hands and stick together.

This excerpt from Chicken Soup For the Soul reminds me of our League members that stick together to reach our common goal for the community, making a difference to those less fortunate. It has been my honor and pleasure to serve as President of the Junior League and my prayer is that I have made a difference to someone this year. Thanks for "Blooming Where You Were Planted." Our garden is beautiful!

Jean Kimball Daniel Dear Very Active Junior League,

The 80th Gala was not just a glamorous meeting, it was a revelation to many of us of the New Junior League. The size, vitality and effectiveness of your reports were overwhelming. Congratulations!

The old organization I remember can only claim distant kin but we were equally dedicated to the growth and enrichment of Montgomery. When I joined the League during World War II the assets were a gavel, several notebooks (kept under members' beds) and a small bank account. But we dreamed big.

One project I remember fondly was helping the museum board when the city gave them the use of an old school house. We were invited to meet there if we helped rehabilitate the building. This included personally painting walls.

The real accomplishment of the League, then as now, is the inspiring and training of members to be effective, willing civic workers. The presidents were just lucky enough to get most of the praise.

Best wishes to you as a group and to each one of you, use this special time to serve, have fun and make friendships. You are part of a fine tradition.

Blessings,

Jean Kimball Daniel

One Team, One Dream

THE AJLI ANNUAL CONFERENCE May 3-6, 2006, Salt Lake City, Utah

By Betty Bobbitt Byrne

ach year the Junior League of Montgomery sends it's President, President Elect and President Elect-Elect to the annual conference of the Association of Junior Leagues International (A.J.L.I.) for training and networking. This year's conference was held in Salt Lake City, Utah which was also the host for the 2002 Winter Olympic Games. With 293 leagues in four countries being represented, attendance topped 1,000 for this year's conference where the theme was, appropriately, "One Team, One Dream".

Laura Selby, Leah Stephens and I each participated in different training tracks. Topics included "Growing Leaders Through Service", "Moving from Events to Donors" and "Presenting the League through Its Financial Statements" among others. The Junior League of Montgomery is also a member of the affinity group P.O.L.L. (Presidents of Large Leagues). We attended this session together and were able to dialogue with other leagues of similar size about relevant issues affecting both the Association and our individual leagues.

A highlight of the conference was keynote speaker and Olympic Champion Picabo Street. She was engaging and passionate as she told her story and spoke about the National Children's Alliance which provides services to over 500 Children's Advocacy Centers throughout the United States, including Child Protect in Montgomery—one of our own partnering agencies.

In addition, we were honored to have Elizabeth Smart, who had just given her first live interview with her father on Larry King Live a few days before, serenade us with the harp. It was a truly remarkable performance.

It was an educational and informative conference and also a lot of fun. Because of our size and our history, the Junior League of Montgomery is able to give and receive when we come together with other leagues at this conference making it a truly worthwhile experience.

n May 9, 2006, the Montgomery Junior League gathered with friends and family at the Capital City Club to celebrate 80 years of volunteer work in the Montgomery community. The evening, sponsored by EastChase, was a real celebration of all that we have achieved and those whom we help. The evening was planned and executed by Gala Chairman Ivy Pitman and her great committee members including Heather Scott, Brantley Gregory, Toni Burnham, Kelly Colson, Tonya Gaston, Stephanie Brown, Christy Cronier, Nicole Mabry and Michelle Tucker.

After opening comments by JLM President Laura Selby and Chairman Ivy Pittman, the crowd was entertained by our very own League Larks who performed a series of 50's inspired love songs. Following the first of many fab> ulous door prizes given throughout the evening, Community Research Chair Anne Marcato presented checks to all of the recipients of our Junior League grants for the year. It was a real treat for all the League members to see how the dollars we work for are spent and the appreciation of the wonderful charities who benefit from our efforts.

Laura Selby

The next award presented was "Sustainer of the Year" which was awarded to Cookie Knott, although she was unable to be present to receive it that evening. Membership Council Vice President Leah Stephens named the "Women to Watch" for their outstanding Leadership qualities. Each woman has worked beyond the expectations of their position and maintained a positive attitude. The honorees are Holly Bigham, Mandy Bailey, Summer Barrett, Kathy Burkett, Pamela Huntsberry, and Susan Mickler.

Next Leah Stephens honored the recipients of the Placement Awards. The Community Placement Award went to Sherri Stewart for her work at Camp Smile-A-Mile. The In League Placement Award went to Community Research Chair Anne Marcato and the In League Committee Placement Award went to Elizabeth Kennedy Lawlor and the Communications Council.

Susannah Cleveland was next on the evening's agenda. Susannah served as Provisional Chair this year and she recognized and inducted all of the provisional members to the status of active members. Leah Stephens also recognized all of the active members moving to sustainer status and thanked them for their years of dedicated service to the League.

President Laura Selby then came forward to thank the League for the great work they did during her year as President and passed the gavel to our President Elect Betty Bobbitt Byrne. Betty Bobbitt announced her slogan for the year of "Connect the Dots....Find Your Spot for Service in the Junior League" She said that she looked forward to a great year!

Finally, it was the time that everyone was waiting for, the announcement of the Favorite Past President. Presidents Committee Chairman Stephanie Brown and Gala Chairman Ivy Pittman came forward and recognized the service and dedication of being a League President and toasted all past presidents. The fundraiser for the event was a twentyfive dollar ticket to vote for the Favorite Past President from all past league presidents. With anticipation in the air, Ivy announced that by popular vote the winner was 1977-1978 Junior League President Winifred (Winnie) Stakely. Mrs. Stakely came to receive the honor and a very successful and wonderful evening came to a close.

Sustainer of the Year:

The Junior League of Montgomery is proud to honor Cookie Knott as our sustainer of the year. Cookie served as an active member of the league for many years serving as Assistant Treasurer and Treasurer. She also worked through the League with AUM to develop a funding resource center. Cookie said "I believe in volunteerism. I think it is a vital part of American life, something that differentiates us from other nations." Her belief continues today as she still actively works in the community volunteering at the Jubilee Community Center where she organized candlelight tours of Cottage Hills, and volunteered with their tax assistance program.

Placement Awards are given to those who exceed expectations during their placements and go above and beyond what is expected. This year's recipient's certainly meet that criteria.

Community Placement Award

Sherri Stewart received this award for her work at Camp Smile-A-Mile. Sherri is truly a dedicated League member. In addition to serving as Chair for the Camp Sam Placement, she also serves on the Community Research Committee and League Larks. However, it's Sherri's passion and dedication to Camp Sam that influenced all those involved to award her the honor of the Community Placement Award for this year.

In League Placement Award

Anne Marcato is a Junior League superstar! Her dedication and willingness to take on challenging tasks is never-ending. This year Anne served as Chairman of Community Research Committee, Holiday Market Personnel Chair, and served on the Fundraising Ad Hoc Committee. That is three full time In-League placements. It is exhausting just to think about!

In League Committee Placement Award

This award went to Elizabeth Lawlor and her Communications Council Committee. Elizabeth worked tirelessly this year with Public Relations efforts working to put the League in a more noticeable place in the community. Under her leadership her committee developed a series of Public Service Announcements and did incredible work on plans for upgrading the website. The Communications Committee members are Heather Sellers, Elise Hixon, Susan Mickler, Nicole Mabry, Mary Catherine Phillips, Summer Barrett, Brenda Dennis, Kelli Gant and Ashley Barganier.

League Logs Recognition

During the Gala, League Logs Editor Brenda Dennis presented a special award to Carolyn Gilbert of Davis Direct. Carolyn has been assisting with the design and printing of League Logs for 40 years. Thanks for all you do, Carolyn!

80th anniversary gala

Junior League Jala ...another view

By Nell Weisenfeld

his year the Junior League of Montgomery is celebrating its 80th Anniversary of giving back to the community. To celebrate, JLM hosted its 80th Anniversary Gala at the Capitol City Club on Tuesday, May 9th. Members invited their spouses, families and friends to attend the free reception on the terrace level of the Capital City club in the main Ballroom to help raise money for our community causes and to honor all past and present members of The Junior League of Montgomery.

Even though the weather outside was dark and stormy, the mood inside was light and festive. The League Larks had everyone in a great mood by singing fun love songs. Elvis was in the building singing with the League Larks and Sherry Stewart made sure the guests were having fun by dancing with many of them.

Doorprizes were in abundance and many of the gift certificates and prizes were from The Shoppes at Eastchase, the Grand Sponsor of our 80th Anniversary Gala. A representative from the new owners of EastChase was on hand to say a few words and thank the Junior League for everything we do.

The Gala was held in lieu of the General Membership meeting and Sustainer Tea so there was still some business to attend to amongst all the fun. Community Placement presented community grants to our funded community placements, our Women to Watch were named, provisionals and new sustainers were honored and Mitzi Chesser announced that Cookie Knott was Sustainer of the Year. All Past Presidents in attendance were given corsages and honored for their past involvement in the Junior League. The highlight of the evening came when Past President Winnie Stakely was named favorite Past-President of the Gala for having received the most donations in her name. In all, more than $10,000 was raised to honor the Presidents of the Gala which the Junior League will be able to put back into the community.

The final order of business for the evening was the Passing of the Gavel. Laura Selby, our 2005-2006 President, passed the gavel to Betty Bobbitt Byrne. In addition to handing Betty Bobbitt the gavel, Laura also gave her a bit of advice on the qualities she will need to successfully be President of the Junior League. To show the Leagues appreciation for Laura's hard work, Betty Bobbitt presented her with a beautiful silver tea pitcher. Betty Bobbitt gave a short speech and attributed her dedication to volun> teerism to her parents, and the influence they have had on her by their active roles as community volunteers.

As the Junior League of Montgomery celebrates our past, we can also look forward to a bright future. The combination of dedicated members and strong leadership helps make our organization successful and a valuable asset to our community. Congratulations to The Junior League of Montgomery on our 80th Anniversary.

hanks to all who came. I want to especially express my appreciation to my committee for all of their hard work!

Thanks also goes to The Shoppes at EastChase for sponsoring the evening.

It was wonderful to visit with past presidents, Sustainers, Actives and new members, who came to celebrate 80 years of Junior League community commitment. The League

Larks entertained us, as always. Awards where handed out, checks where passed out to the community grant beneficiaries and the gavel was passed. To top off the evening we raised $11,590.00 in honor or in memory of past JLM presidents. A big thank you goes to all who donated.

It is such an honor to be part of such a great organization, The Junior League of Montgomery!

You will see a new side – a more connected side – of the Junior League of Montgomery this September. A more accessible, flexible and informational JLM office is coming to your house soon!

HOW?

We are launching a new virtual online office this fall. What is now the JLM website will become a one-stop-shop for every member to check on future events, update contact information, confirm obligation status, and pay dues. With the click of a computer mouse. It will be able to access a member-interactive-open 24/7-Junior League- website that will change how the JLM communicates with you.

This past Spring, the JLM signed on with Digital Cheetah, a nationally-known web products company, to upgrade and expand our website and communication tools. Our initial goal was to establish a user-friendlier website that offered more member services and allowed easier updating. We found a product, offered by Digital Cheetah, that will do so much more that it is likely to change how the JLM communicates and operates!

DIGITAL CHEETAH – CONNECTING TECHNOLOGY

Founded in August 2001, Digital Cheetah works with companies and non-profits to build complete web and database solutions that are easy to maintain, highly functional, and affordable. They boast a technology team that has over twenty years of systems development experience and over ten years of high-end Web development experience.

For the Junior League of Montgomery, Digital Cheetah will provide us with a highly customized website that will be fast, functional and user friendly. The public site will be inviting and informative with events, pictures, and membership information.

The password-protected "Members Only" section will offer an overwhelming number of membership options and services that can be accessed anytime of the day or night.

Getting Better Connected is Going to be a CLICK Away!

By Elizabeth Kennedy Lawlor

MEMBERS ONLY – CONNECTING PEOPLE AND PLACES

Have you ever tried to look up a JLM member in our Yearbook only to find their phone number changed or the e-mail address out of date? Have you ever moved and forgotten to let the JLM office know, thus not getting your dues-renewal letter on time? Have you ever needed to change your shift time for Holiday Market? Have you ever wanted to contact everyone on your placement committee, but didn't know who all was serving on it? Have you ever been out of town or sick during Placement Days? Have you ever thought you had enough meeting credits, but found out in May that you didn't?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, the "Members' Only" section of our new website will make a difference for you. The virtual office will allow you to:

- Pay dues, make donations, and purchase Holiday Market tickets.
- Instantly update personal information such as name, address, phone numbers and e-mail
- Quickly search the membership database by a member's name, placement, committee, or by other means, for other individual members or groups of members.
- Check obligations status for meeting credits, dues renewal, membership standing, Holiday Market ticket purchases and Rummage Sale donations (ways and means requirements), placement fulfillment and other membership obligations.
- Easily register for placements.
- Sign-up for Holiday Market Committees and shifts.
- Sign-up for Rummage Sale Committees and shifts.
- View a comprehensive event calendar that includes JLM events as well as all JLM board, council, membership, committee, placement and provisional meetings.

 Send e-mail to other members – individually or to a committee or group.

These options will be available to you anytime you need to use them. And this is just scratching the surface of the possibilities! The more you use the tools on the website, the more informed and active you will be!

BUILDING THE FUTURE – CONNECTING PROCESS AND PROCEDURE

Of course, building a new website and virtual office doesn't happen overnight. It is has been a year-long effort that began with the Communications Council researching our Internet options over the past year. By working closely with the Board of Directors, a good, flexible product was chosen that can grow as the JLM grows and can adapt to our changing goals.

With the Board's approval last spring, Digital Cheetah began working with the JLM to map out a timeline and plan for designing and implementing our new site. Over the summer, representatives from Digital Cheetah met with Board members and various committee and placement chairs to learn about our League's processes and procedures so a very tailored site could be developed.

INFORMATION – CONNECTING WITH JLM

The information and resources that will be offered on our new virtual office will only be as great as you make it. Accuracy and simplification are key components to the website's success Once the new site is rolled out and operating, you may get online and update your personal information anytime you need to. There will be new data items that have only been kept in a file. Information such as your profession and where you are employed will enhance the database search options for members and can be used as a means for connecting members more on their commonalities.

On the administrative side, your obligation information will also be more accurate and much easier to track. Each member's attendance at membership meetings and events will become computerized with bar codes and scanners to track your participation. This simple means of ensuring you get credit for everything you do will cut down dramatically on missed events and obligations errors. Review your information often, it will become our primary means for contacting you.

THE ROLLOUT – CONNECTING VOLUNTEERS AND COMMUNITY

The target rollout is scheduled for our first 2006-2007 General Membership meeting in September. We anticipate publicizing our new online resource to the public as a gateway to our volunteer efforts in the Montgomery Com-munity. Men, women, businesses and organizations will get a much clearer picture of the JLM's mission and achievements. Ultimately, our visibility will increase and our support will, too.

As for our community supporters, our new virtual office will improve our ability to document contributors to the JLM – those who give financial support and those who offer in kind services and item donations. With the fund development tracking tool, we will not only be able to cultivate our fundraising targets more precisely, we will also eliminate multiple committees asking the same contributors for help without everyone's knowledge.

As for our team of volunteers, we look forward to expanding our members' knowledge and involvement in the JLM though the "Members Only" features. Getting connected and feeling connected is key to recruiting and retaining members and sustainers in the League. Our new website will link members better and link the community more efficiently.

THE FUTURE – CONNECTING DOTS

The Junior League of Montgomery has hit numerous milestones in the past few years: expanding our provisional classes, increasing member retention and improving our membership flexibility. The zenith of our achievements has been completing our very first Signature Project: Discovery Village Playscape in Old Alabama Town. Now, we are reaching a new height that will make its mark for years to come.

Our bold step into the world of 21st century technology has the potential to revolutionize our Junior League. Please take advantage of our new technology and use these tools in everyway. The more you use it, the better it will be!

Debbie Hobbs and Lee Sellers were feted at the event, held in March at the RSA Activity Center, for their positive impact on the community. This year's recipients, which also included Mary Briers, Paulette Moncrief, Judge Tracy McCooey and Girl Scout Volunteer of the Year Debbie Kasper, were nominated by their peers and chosen by a panel of former honorees. Former Women of Distinction also presented the awards to the ladies throughout the night, while a live auction was also held to raise money for the Girl Scout council.

Girl Scouts of South Central Alabama, Inc. has hosted this event annually since 1995 to recognize women who dedicate their time and talents to make an impact on their community, profession and family. Barbara Gilewicz, CEO, said, "It is important for us to honor women that will serve as role models for our members today, and provide them with examples of what can be accomplished if they are willing to be of service to their communities."

Holiday Market Sustainer Art Booth:

The HeART of the Matter By Amy C. Brown

"Every artist dips his brush in his own soul, and paints his own nature into his pictures."

-Henry Ward Beecher

The great thing about art is that it can be appreciated by anyone and everyone. One doesn't need any special knowledge to appreciate art. Art can comfort and excite and also can be a powerful motivator in behavior, thought, and beliefs. Art, through entertainment, is an educator. Since education is one of the core values of the Junior League of Montgomery, the League sponsors The Sustainer Art Booth at the Holiday Market. The Sustainer Art Booth features the work of local artists while at the same time raises much needed funds to continue the mission of the League, which is to serve the Montgomery Community. The Sustainer Art Booth adds a splash of interest and originality to the Market.

I do not claim to be an art expert nor an art critic but I can say I am a huge admirer and advocate of art's influence on one's well-being. The first time I can remember art striking a chord with me was when I was a senior in high school. I visited a friend who was babysitting at a neighbor's house. The walls were covered with boldly fanciful and vibrant child-like paintings. I felt so awake and energized and comforted by their presence. It was indeed a happy place. I asked my friend about the paintings and she told me that a local artist, Mose Tolliver, better known as Mose T, painted them. That was 1990. I've been hooked on art ever since. It was as if the world of color and expression through painting was introduced to me on that day.

Once I was introduced to Mose T's paintings my eyes were opened to all art around me, folk art in particular. I have since admired Annie T, Jimmy Sudduth, Mary Proctor, Howard Finster, Lee Harris (the Renaissance Man), Woodie Long and R.A. Miller's work.

It was through my volunteering with the Junior League's Sustainer Art Booth, however, that I became acquainted with the overwhelming talent of local artists that we so fortunately have in Montgomery.

There is nothing like the spiritual connectedness I feel when gazing upon one of Camilla Armstrong's compassionate angelic faces or her simplistic yet emotional depictions of nature. Her ability to reinvent her spirituality in her work provokes great anticipation in viewing.

I am also in love with Deb Watson's fun and sassy feminine paintings sprinkled with bold and slightly masculine colors. Behind all her paintings I feel the inspiring presence of a strong woman.

I also deeply admire the work of Barbara Gallagher. Her combinations of color and pattern and expression convey magical realism to me. Her drive to overcome personal obstacles is an inspiration that is ever present in her bold display of artistic talent.

Barb Grimes work varies from the playful and fun to the highly detailed and dramatic. Her artistic talent suits a wide range of audience, from a child's fancy to the mature sophisticate.

Another one of our local artists is Clark Walker. I am always comforted and relaxed by the color schemes that Clark brings to life through his use of subtle brush strokes. Upon closer view, the dreamy cohesive images Clark creates ironically consist of intricate details. Clark's combination of subtle and intricate evokes powerful response.

her image creations, whether abstract or figurative, magically come together in thoughtful brush strokes. Her paintings of children capture the heart like none other.

Diddy Vucovich's angelic figures have always been highly sought after by the art booth customers. Diddy's talent is unlimited in its ability to move and inspire.

Mandy Bagwell's pottery is hip, bold, and whimsical, while imaginatively versatile. Mandy's paintings are just as fun and fanciful.

Craig Green has been one of the booth's newer artists. His abstractly real figures are entertainingly perplexing. They are constructed of bold colors and emotional imagery.

This year marks the eighth year of the Sustainer Art Booth and I am thrilled with the honor of chairing this booth this year. I invite you to consider choosing a selection of art to decorate your house, as a gift for Christmas, or to commemorate a birth, a birthday, an anniversary, promotion, or any special occasion. What could be a more original gift than a one of a kind piece of art? Not only will the recipient be appreciative of your creativity in gift selection but you will also be helping the community with your purchase. We invite you to visit our booth and enjoy the works of our familiar and newly found favorite local artists. Please visit us and let us entertain you for a while. Support the arts!

LEAGUE LOGS

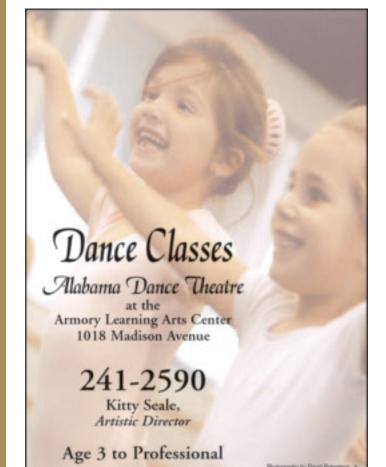

by Susan Mickler

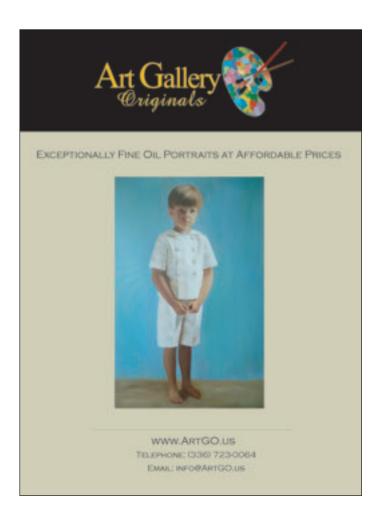

- JANUARY 1925 Ten girls called twenty more and got together for the first meeting of the "Junior Auxiliary".
- JANUARY 1926 After just one year on probation, the Junior League of Montgomery was established. This happened just 15 years after the first Junior League is formed in New York.
- MARCH 1927 Children's Theatre was established to add cultural enrichment to school children's lives, and our first inroad to the public school system was established.
- APRIL 1928 League Logs was first published due to the fundraising of the editor and staff by candy and cake sales. The name League Logs came from one of our initial homes of a log cabin located near the Montgomery Curb Market.
- FALL 1931 Provisional Training Requirements were to attend seven lectures, do written reports of three of these lectures, and an examination on the Constitution and By-Laws of the Montgomery League, among others.
- SEPTEMBER 1934 Ways and Means Committee established and the inaugural Follies which was quite the hit with acts sometimes including both members and their husbands, regardless of talent.
- SPRING 1940 First Junior League of Montgomery Cookbook is complied and published and sold for $2.
- SEPTEMBER 1943 Frances Marks takes office as President Once quoted as saying, "The status of the League today is the direct result of work, precedents and practices established from the beginning, and our present day image reflects the best of those all those years".
- FALL 1944 Lavinia Lee Cassels becomes President for two years. This began a brief period of our Presidents serving two years, from 1944 through 1952.
- OCTOBER 1952 First Rummage Sale held and raised more than $5000.
- 1953 Moved twice along the same street, from 1752 Boultier to 2748 Boultier. This latter location was right behind the current Sinclair's in Cloverdale.
- SPRING 1955 "During that time, we moved from the first small office to rent-free rooms in the basement of the old museum which was located in an old school at High and Lawrence Streets," remembered Mrs. Sue Ashley, President 1955-56, in the 60th Anniversary Edition of League Logs.

Timeline

- DECEMBER 1961 First issue of the Wonder Book. The book was compiled and published by the "career girls" and provided to hospitals and clinics where children we confined. It included games and puzzles for children to work on. Also saw top sales of $8,857 from the Rummage Sale earlier that year.
- MARCH 1964 The League again moved to Fairview Avenue. Dr. Grover Murchison donated the home to use. It was formerly the Alabama Cattlemen's Association.

The following is reprinted from some original typed pages found in the Archives Room at the League Office. It was likely intended for an issue of League Logs sometime in the 1960's. What is fascinating about this article is the inside-look at some of the emotions surrounding the first election of officers during JLM's first year as a member of the National Association of Junior Leagues. While Mrs. Dozier (who was elderly when she wrote this) is careful not to name names, it is clear that the election left a lasting impression on her.

Everybody Was a Provisional

By Julia Marks Dozier

ne day in January 1926 Ethel Salter (long since known to you as Mrs. Norman Gayle, Sr.) called me up and said, "Come to Mae Steiner's tomorrow. A few of us are getting up a little club called the Junior League."

I said, "Thank you; but what are you going to do? I don't know whether I want to join or not." (I knew I liked what the Tuesday card club did – eat and play a spasmodic game for bud vases and 25 cent handkerchiefs). "All [right]", she came back, but after tomorrow you have to be voted on." I was not a knowledgeable club woman at the time, but I had sense enough to hurry around to the corner of Hull and Alabam[a] (where Dr. Benkwith's office now stands) [the] next day.

Actually, our official name was [the] Junior Auxiliary. We were "on probation" for a year, "proving ourselves". Our avowed purpose was to become a member of the National Association of Junior Leagues. We were mighty happy when we were accepted. Some Leagues in the same boat with us did not make it for several years.

The first thing we did was to elect officers; and the second, to write a constitution, stressing mainly, so many hours of volunteer community service per month. Immediately we realized we needed more members to carry on all the good works we were planning, and to raise money.

That was a good year to learn what the word "blackball" meant. Those dear little old ladies (our grandmothers) did not have a committee to look up candidates' qualifications or their parents' contributions. Members just voted according to what they KNEW; and many knew that the others didn't know what they were talking about.

I remember one day, at our rooms down on Commerce St. it was probably our first election. There was so much talking about what everybody knew and vise versa that the meeting had to be adjourned without any election. I really shouldn't tell you this, but when I get started on a confidence, it's hard to bridle my tongue. A meeting was called for a week later when one of the members was having a garden party and a certain group would be THERE. A nice smooth election took place that day.

I was Chairman of something called the Social Service Committee, which had its head-quarters in a big old trunk on the Kohns' back porch on Court Street; but that's another story.

He speaks to us everywhere: In the car. At work. In school.

But at Church, you can listen better. The "noise" of the world is out. The clarity of His message is in.

One thing's for sure: He wants you to be everything you can be.

Come worship with us this Sunday. Listen. What does God have to say to you?

Quick Ideas for Lazy Summer Afternoons

By Carla Gilmore, Education/Training Chair

Short weeks, vacation is still a month away, and the kids are already complaining that they're bored. The heat outside is becoming oppressive. Inside, boredom leads to irritability, whining, and fighting.

When little ones become tired and bored, parents need something engaging that requires minimal preparation and fuss. So, keep these quick ideas handy and have a little fun on a "boring" summer afternoon.

- MAKE HOMEMADE ICE CREAM. This is amazingly simple for such a special treat. Pick up a bag of ice, rock salt, a gallon of milk, and a can of sweetened condensed milk. Let your child mix the condensed milk, 1 and 1/2 cups of sugar, 1/8 teaspoon salt, and 1 tablespoon of vanilla extract with about two cups of milk. Stir until the sugar has dissolved, then pour into the freezer. Add more milk to the fill line, load it up with ice and rock salt, and let it run for about 40 minutes. Let your children prepare toppings that they like for an added treat.
- TURN ON YOUR SPRINKLER. Watermelons are so sticky and messy but they are too good to pass up on those hot summer afternoons. Rather than serving watermelon indoors, cut a whole melon into enough pieces for your children and their friends. Then send them outside and turn on the sprinkler. You don't even have to watch it, just let them loose to get as sticky and wet as they want.
- GO TO THE LIBRARY. Plan on staying for a while. Your children can discover new books and play on the computer, and you might even find a new read to brighten your afternoon. Check out a variety of books, audio, and video tapes to entertain the children for several days.
- DISCOVER VIRTUAL TRAVEL. Choose a U.S. Travel Scavenger Hunt at Education World. Print out the quiz sheet; point your browser to the U.S. National Park Service search engine at http://www.nps.gov/parks.html and let the kids take a virtual trip across the United States

• START A NEIGHBORHOOD CO-OP. Round up parents of similar-aged children in your neighborhood and start a summer fun program for the kids. Parents can alternate care, and plan and carry out a fun outing for all participants for assigned days. There typically is no money that changes hands; the pay-off is that everyone equally takes turns and plans an enjoyable and safe day. Meeting and agreeing to a calendar of activities and events is advised.

Now you have some ideas for at least a few of the summer days ahead. Enjoy!

Summer Time Gardening Tip

By Amy C. Brown

"Summertime and the living is easy.

Fish are jumping and the cotton is high"

-Sam Cooke

It is officially summer. Gardening can be quite perplexing with the combination of heat, weeds, and insects. Here are some hot (no pun intended) summer gardening tips:

PLANTING....

- Plant summer bedding plants that will give a rush of color all through the summer and often into autumn.
- Prepare the soil by removing any weeds, and applying fertilizer (either artificial or manure).
- Don't select plants in full bloom for planting.
 It is always better to choose plants that are about to flower because they will stand the shock of planting far better than those in full bloom.
- After planting, water the area heavily, and then water the plants frequently until the roots are established.
- Rock plants (Alpines) and herbaceous perennials (most garden flowers) can be grown from seed at this time of year, most types are relatively easy to grow and seeds are cheap. Herbaceous perennials are plants that bloom year after year. Their tops die back to the ground each fall, but their crowns and root systems remain alive (though dormant) during winter. They grow again from those roots and crowns when conditions are right the following spring.

To maintain a bedding where plants are covered in flowers, you must feed the plants with a liquid feed. Be careful, as overfeeding encourages too much leaf growth as opposed to desired flower growth. Hanging baskets and tubs need a weekly feed because the plant doesn't allow the roots to gather nutrients from the surrounding area when it is confined to a container.

Summer Time Gardening Tips

Remove the dead flowers on your bedding plants and other decorative plants. If the flowers are left to go to seed the plants will stop flower production.

TIME TO PLANT THE VEGGIES

• It is helpful to anchor and support the plants with garden canes.

 Pinch out the side shoots on your tomato plants in early growth to promote more growth and more flowers.

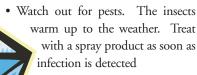

- Spray tomato plants lightly in the evenings to promote fruit setting.
 Do not wet the leaves during the day because in the heat of the day water can boil on the leaves and severely damage them.
- In August, pinch out the centre shoot of your tomato plants, in order to concentrate the plants' energy on filling out the existing tomatoes, rather than producing more growth
- Plant your late cauliflower, cabbage and brussel sprout plants.
- Prepare the ground well, remembering that vegetable plants are gross feeders, so they need a lot of feed mixed into the soil.
- Dust the stems with an anti cabbage root fly preparation soon after planting. Cabbage root fly lay their eggs in the stem, then the hatching maggots eat their way down to the roots and destroy the plant.

IN THE GARDEN...

- Slugs and snails are ever present at this time of year, especially on your perennials. Eliminate them before they do too much damage.
- Keep an eye out for aphids on your plants. Aphids are any of the various small, soft-bodied insects that have mouthparts specially adapted for piercing. They feed by sucking sap from plants which leaves the plant dry and wilted. Aphids multiply fast at this time of year. There are sprays available to protect your plants. You can also wash them off with a weak mixture of detergent and water.

IN THE GREENHOUSE...

• Harden off your hanging baskets, patio tubs, and any other plants you have grown for outside

• Off set the high temperatures that can occur in the greenhouse by shading. Many types of shading materials are available at retail outlets. You can also buy automatic devices to open glasshouse windows. Also, thermostatically controlled fans are available.
• Greenhouse plants need regular attention. Remember to water tomatoes regularly because irregular watering causes splitting.

LAWN..

- At this time of year lawns take heavy punishment, the most important thing to remember is to maintain your lawn with attention.
- Pull out any weeds.
- Apply lawn fertilizer according to directions
- Make sure lawns receive at least six inches of rain (or watering) per week.
- Maintain lawn height at 2 1/2 inches

FRUIT...

Protect soft fruit from the birds' consumption by a bird-scarer. A great way to do this is by hanging CD disks in the surrounding trees.
The CDs reflect the light in the breeze and scare the birds away.

GOODBYE ROSES...

- Remove all flowers that are finished so they don't produce seed pods.
 If roses produce seed pods, the plant will not produce more flowers because it is using all its energy to produce seeds.
- Remove any flower buds that are failing to open and rotting as these buds can potentially carry disease.

VACATION...

• Summer is traditionally filled with vacations. While you are away your plants may need some attention. Ask a neighbor or a friend to come by and give watering sessions. If you can't find anyone to help, spread wood chippings or peat around the plant roots, then soak them with water. This step will help prevent too much moisture evaporating during a hot summer day.

Please consult your local gardener for any questions you might have. You might also want to take advantage of the free weekly seminars hosted by Southern Homes and Gardens. You can find out the weekly topics by viewing their calendar at www.southern-homesandgardens.com

Family Float THE CAHABA RIVER

While it lacks the rush and thrill found in riding swift whitewater rapids, a canoe trip down the Cahaba, one of Alabama's lazier rivers, offers instead time to drink in the scenery and enjoy a conversation.

The docile Cahaba River near Birmingham has garnered attention in recent years after a botanist accidentally came upon eight totally new species of plant life while discovering the Cahaba's gentle waters for himself. The pale pink petals of Alabama gentian pinkroot, one of

Wrapping Up a Great Year: Provisional Class 2005-2006

By Susannah Cleveland (Outgoing Provisional Chair)

know that one person can make a difference, and I strongly believe in that premise. However, throughout my life I have been more amazed by the impact that a group of hard-working people can make when they work together toward a common goal. That is just what this year's Provisional Class has begun to do in our community. These dynamic women have learned about the Junior League of Montgomery by attending monthly Provisional meetings, General Membership meetings, volunteering at the Holiday Market, Habitat for Humanity, The Montgomery Public Schools, and the Salvation Army, and raising nearly $4,000 through their sale of Sally Foster giftwrap. The class voted to give the Junior League this money to help defray the cost of updating its web-site and upgrading to Digital Cheetah, a program that will allow League members to better track their obligations, placement requirements, etc. What is most impressive is that nearly 77% of these women work and many of them have families as well. One class member got married during the course of the year, and nine babies were born!

To celebrate the completion of their busy year, the Provisional Class was honored at an end-of-the-year dinner at Noble's restaurant downtown. This was a delightful evening in which the class could relax and celebrate the completion of the year and all of their hard work.

During the 80th Anniversary Gala and May meeting, members of the Provisional Class were recognized and officially changed their status to First Year Actives. These women are the future leaders of the Junior League of Montgomery, and many have already stepped into leadership roles next year. It is exciting to know that with the skills, talent, and drive that the women of the 2005-2006 Provisional Class possess, the Junior League is on the right path to continue to make a difference in the lives of families in Montgomery...by working together!
